Experience

Heidi is originally from Arizona but is a long-time Florida resident. She holds a bachelor's degree in psychology, a master's in public administration and received her Juris Doctorate with honors from Florida State University.

Heidi began her legal career as an associate at a Tampa firm and later became a shareholder at a St. Petersburg firm in their commercial litigation practice group where she handled complex contractual disputes, commercial leasing and foreclosures, banking litigation and insurance defense of design professionals in construction litigation claims. After taking a leave of absence to travel, Heidi has joined Taylor Day Grimm & Boyd where her current practice includes commercial litigation, insurance coverage and personal injury protection (PIP) defense.

When she is not working, Heidi enjoys travel, outdoor activities, a good novel and time spent with family and friends.
