

John E. Howard

Attorney

Experience

Born in Tampa, John proudly graduated from high school right here in Jacksonville, Florida. He attended University of Central Florida, where he majored in Legal Studies with minors in Business and Public Administration. He spent his summers interning in and around Orlando, including the Orange County Public Defender's Office. John earned his Juris Doctor from Barry University School of Law and worked as an insurance defense paralegal and volunteered for The Legal Aid Society of the Orange County Bar Association.

After graduation, John continued his paralegal work until moving back to Jacksonville and beginning his legal career working in pharmaceutical contracting. At Taylor Day Law, he concentrates his practice in auto insurance and bodily injury defense.

When not in the office, John enjoys spending his free time with his family and friends, and at the beach or dog park. He is also a fan and continuing believer of the Jacksonville Jaguars football team.
